

Course Summary: March 29, 2026

Linguistics with French BA Honours

- UCAS code: Q1R1
- Full time
- 4 years

Explore how language works, how it's structured and how we communicate. Alongside linguistics, you'll build on your French language skills and have the chance to immerse yourself in French culture.

You are currently viewing course information for entry year: 2026

Next start date:

- September 2026

Tuition fees (Year 1)

- Home: £9,790
- International: £24,500

Entry requirements and offers

- A-Level: ABB
- IB: 32 points

UCAS Institution name and code:

- NEWC / N21

Undergraduate Open Day

Start your university journey. Find where you belong. Friday, June 26 (9:00-16:00)
Saturday, June 27 (9:00-16:00)

Book your place now

Course overview

This four-year Linguistics with French degree concentrates on developing your understanding of:

- how languages function
- how we communicate
- the growth of language in the mind

Explore linguistics in the context of English and French and build a firm foundation of skills to pursue many potential career paths. Depending on your previous experience, you can study French at an intermediate or advanced level.

In your third year, you'll immerse yourself in Francophone culture as you spend the year in a French-speaking country. Improve your language skills, boost your confidence, and gain a first-hand appreciation of the language in context.

Our cutting-edge programme is shaped by the research specialisms of our world-leading researchers. Explore the latest ideas and most exciting areas of linguistics, such as:

- first and second language acquisition

- child language acquisition
- language variation and change
- psycholinguistics
- theoretical linguistics

Your course and study experience - disclaimers and terms and conditions

Please rest assured we make all reasonable efforts to provide you with the programmes, services and facilities described. However, it may be necessary to make changes due to significant disruption, for example in response to Covid-19.

View our Academic experience page, which gives information about your Newcastle University study experience for the academic year 2025-26.

See our terms and conditions and student complaints information, which gives details of circumstances that may lead to changes to programmes, modules or University services.

Quality and ranking

Professional accreditation and recognition

All professional accreditations are reviewed regularly by their professional body.

Modules and learning

Modules

The information below is intended to provide an example of what you will study.

Most degrees are divided into stages. Each stage lasts for one academic year, and you'll complete modules totalling 120 credits by the end of each stage.

Our teaching is informed by research. Course content may change periodically to reflect developments in the discipline, the requirements of external bodies and partners, and student feedback.

Optional module availability

Student demand for optional modules may affect availability.

Full details of the modules on offer will be published through the Programme Regulations and Specifications ahead of each academic year. This usually happens in May.

To find out more please see our terms and conditions

You'll study the same linguistics modules as students on the single honours Linguistics degree.

Your stage 1 modules will lay the foundation for in-depth analysis and description of language. They focus on topics such as the:

- structure of words and sentences (morphology and syntax)
- sounds and sound systems of language (phonetics and phonology)
- language variation and change
- language acquisition and psycholinguistics

Your language covers speaking, reading, writing and listening skills.

You'll have a weekly grammar lesson, complemented by classes aimed at helping you understand the culture and society of the countries where French is spoken.

Modules

Compulsory Modules	Credits
Level B (HE Intermediate) French	20
The Nature of Language	20
Introduction to the Structure of Language 1: Phonetics, Phonology & Morphology	20
Introduction to Language Structure 2: Syntax, semantics and pragmatics	20
Dealing with Data	20
Optional Modules	Credits
France and the Francophone World	20
Introduction to Linguistics	20
Academic Study and Research Skills	0

Through your compulsory modules you'll develop your knowledge of:

- core aspects of grammar and sound patterns
- how these apply to a range of languages

You'll broaden your understanding of language by exploring the social context in which languages are learned, used and how they change over time.

In your French modules in the School of Modern Languages, you'll develop your:

- reading, listening, writing and speaking skills
- understanding of the culture and society of French-speaking countries. This is in preparation for your year abroad

Modules

Compulsory Modules	Credits
Level C (HE Advanced) French	20
Phonological Theory	20
Syntactic Theory	20
Year Abroad Preparation	0
Optional Modules	Credits
Sociolinguistics	20
Early English: Texts, Patterns and Varieties	20
Pragmatic Theory	20
CHiLD: Current Hypotheses in Language Development	20
Introduction to Second Language Learning and Teaching	20
Experimental Practicum	20
Philosophy of Linguistics	20

You will spend your third year studying or working (or a combination of both) in a French-speaking country.

Modules

Compulsory Modules	Credits
Year Abroad Tutor Posts	100

Optional Modules

You take one of the following optional modules:

Study Abroad (20 credits)

Year Abroad Work Placement Report \(Semester 1\) (20 credits)

Year Abroad Work Placement Report \(Semester 2\) (20 credits)

Year Abroad Project \(Semester 2\) (20 credits)

You'll continue to study advanced language modules in French, reflecting the fluency you will have gained during your year abroad.

You can select your remaining modules from an array of choices, each of which is closely linked to your lecturers' active research specialisms. These currently include syntactic and phonological theory; low-educated second language and literacy acquisition; language origins and evolution; child language acquisition and language change.

You will also undertake an independent project, leading your own research in close collaboration with a faculty supervisor.

Modules

You must take one of the following modules (shown in the list below):

Module	Credits
Level D (HE Further Advanced) French: Language for Professional & Academic Purposes	20

Module	Credits
Level D (HE Further Advanced) French: Translation & Interpreting	20

You must also take one of the following modules (shown in the list below):

Module	Credits
Short-form Dissertation 1: English Language and Linguistics	20
Short-form Dissertation 2 English Language and Linguistics	20
Dissertation/T&I Project	20

Optional Modules	Credits
Level D (HE Further Advanced): French for Professional and Academic Purposes	20
Level D (HE Further Advanced): French Translation and Interpreting	20
Sociolinguistics	20
Early English: Texts, Patterns and Varieties	20
Pragmatic Theory	20
CHiLD: Current Hypotheses in Language Development	20
Introduction to Second Language Learning and Teaching	20
Philosophy of Linguistics	20
Short-form Dissertation 1: English Language and Linguistics	20
Short-form Dissertation 2: English Language and Linguistics	20

Language and Ageing	20
Advanced Second Language Acquisition	20
Laboratory Phonology	20
Medieval and Early Modern Meaning: English Historical Semantics	20
Current Issues in Linguistics	20
New Words in English	20
Dissertation/T&I Project	20

Teaching and assessment

Teaching methods

You can normally expect to spend around 10 hours per week attending lectures, seminars, workshops and film screenings, plus weekly study groups.

You also spend around 25 hours per week on class preparation, reading, writing, and other kinds of independent research recommended by your tutor.

Assessment methods

You'll be assessed through a combination of:

- Coursework
- Dissertation or research project
- Essays
- Examinations – practical or online
- Group work
- Interviews
- Presentations

- Projects
- Reflective report/journal

Skills and experience

Practical experience

Studying Linguistics at Newcastle means you will benefit from access to our state-of-the-art Linguistics Laboratory. The LingLab hosts collections of language data for analysis of linguistic variation and change. It also hosts a range of equipment for advanced articulatory, phonetic and psycholinguistic research. Activities are supported by a dedicated lab manager.

You'll also have access to the award-winning Language Resource Centre in the School of Modern Languages. These facilities support your language learning, and encourage cross-cultural communication.

Research skills

As part of your degree, you will complete an independent research project in your final year. You will collaborate with a faculty member to investigate a novel topic that you are passionate about. You will also be offered a range of opportunities to participate in staff research projects.

Opportunities

You will spend the third year of your degree in a French-speaking country, where you can:

- study at one of our partner institutions
- teach English as a foreign language under the British Council assistantship programme
- take a work placement
- combine study with work placement

Our current partner institutions, in France and Belgium, include:

- Haute École EPHEC
- Université Libre de Bruxelles
- ISIT Paris
- Université Catholique de l'Ouest
- Université d'Angers
- Université de Lorraine
- Université de Pau et des Pays de l'Adour
- Université de Tours
- Université Grenoble Alps

Facilities and environment

Facilities

You'll be based in the School of English Literature, Language and Linguistics. The School is located in the Percy Building, which is at the heart of our city-centre campus. You'll join a lively community of students, academics, writers, and professionals.

You'll have access to:

- a library of 1.4 million books and 54,000 journals on 26km of shelving
- the Percy Building's student common rooms, study areas and café
- Northern Stage, Great North Museum & the Hatton Gallery for events and exhibitions
- the Students' Union for shops, societies and gigs
- a digital media lab for developing documentaries and film-making
- the School of Modern Languages' Language Resource Centre

You'll also have access to a diverse programme of events, including spoken-word events and creative writing courses.

Find out more about the School of English Literature, Language and Linguistics

Support

You'll have the support of an academic member of staff as a Personal Tutor throughout your degree to help with academic and personal issues affecting your academic progress.

Peer Mentors will help you in your first year. They are fellow students who can help you settle in and answer questions you may have when starting university.

Your future

English Language and Linguistics students acquire a range of valuable skills which equip them to pursue diverse career paths.

Your training can be used in:

- teaching English as a foreign language
- publishing and journalism
- advertising, branding and marketing
- law and policy
- information services and data science

You will gain skills such as critical reasoning and problem solving, project and data management, oral and written communication, collaboration and independent research.

Our degrees provide excellent preparation for a wide number of professions. With further training, our graduates have also become:

- lexicographers
- translators and interpreters
- speech and language therapists
- social researchers
- legal sector workers (including forensic linguists)

Employability

Employability and the engagement with the wider world go hand-in-hand in this degree.

Many of our modules, particularly in your final year, model their assessments on the kind of tasks you might be employed to do:

- constructing marketing briefs
- summarising reports
- drafting website copy
- curating exhibitions
- designing experiments
- coding websites
- analysing data
- writing a clear and persuasive argument.

Beyond our modules, there are plenty of extracurricular opportunities. These range from freelance work for Newcastle's student newspaper to paid internships in the department. In particular, the Newcastle Centre for Literary Arts hires students to work on everything from event management to app design.

Make a difference

Careers support

Our Careers Service is one of the largest and best in the country, and we have strong links with employers. We provide an extensive range of opportunities to all students through our ncl+ initiative.

Visit our Careers Service website

Recognition of professional qualifications outside of the UK

If you're studying an accredited degree and thinking about working in Europe after you graduate, the best place to find current information is the UK Government's guidance on recognition of UK professional qualifications in EU member states. This official resource explains whether your profession is regulated in another country, what steps you need to take, and which organisation you should contact.

Find out more...

- Go online for information about our full range of degrees:
www.ncl.ac.uk/undergraduate
- Watch videos about student life in Newcastle by visiting our YouTube channel at www.youtube.com/@newcastleuni
- Watch a virtual tour of our campus at <https://youtu.be/vJUfHcqB7l8?si=8lUrf7kTxXbgdfr1>
- Book for an Open Day to come and see us in person
www.ncl.ac.uk/openday
- Contact us online at www.ncl.ac.uk/enquiries or phone +44 (0)191 208 3333

This brochure is created from web content and is up to date at the time of creation (see the first page for creation date). If you are on screen you are able to use the live links that are highlighted in blue. If reading in print, the URLs provided above will help you to navigate back online. Full details of the University's terms and conditions, including reference to all relevant policies, procedures, regulations and information provision, are available at:

<https://www.ncl.ac.uk/student-welcome/student-contract/>

© Newcastle University.

The University of Newcastle upon Tyne trading as Newcastle University.